

TRIFOLD Data Inserts – Fort Bliss

Importance for the Army

- Creation of Joint Mobilization Site
- Consolidation of Army Reserve Centers and National Guard Readiness Centers
- Reposition of ground forces to meet the needs of Combatant Commanders through Integrated Global Presence and Basing Strategy (IGPBS)

Positions Moving from Fort Bliss: 2,385

Positions Moving to Fort Bliss: 17,176

Total BRAC Military Construction: $2.086.1 billion (BCA), $1.6B, (MCA)

Movements from Fort Bliss:
Air Defense Artillery Units to Fort Sill, OK	Aug-2008
Air Defense Artillery (ADA) Center & School to Fort Sill, OK	May-2010
Movements to Fort Bliss:
All Mobilization Processing Functions from Fort Huachuca, AZ	Jul-2008
United States Army Reserve Equipment Concentration Site from McGregor Range, Fort Bliss, NM	Mar-2010
Three Army Forces Reserve Centers, 2 from El Paso, TX, and 1 from McGregor Range, Fort Bliss, NM	Sep-2010
Two National Guard Readiness Centers from El Paso, TX and McGregor Range, Fort Bliss, NM	Mar-2010
One Artillery (Fires) Brigade from Fort Sill, OK	Jul-2010
Echelon Above Division Units from Germany	Oct-2010
Echelon Above Division Units from Korea	Oct-2010
1st Armored Division from Germany	Jun-2011
Maneuver Battalions, a Support Battalion, Aviation Units from Fort Hood, TX	Aug-2011

